£750 worth of state-of-the-art running gear from profect, including a video gait analysis

Profect consultants will first analyse the movement of your feet using the video gait fitting system

For many of us backaches, blisters, knee pain, shin splints and plantar fasciitis (an inflammatory condition caused by excessive wear to the connective tissue that supports the arch of the foot) are par for the course in the running side of triathlon training – but they don't have to be.

Getting a shoe that is moulded not only to your foot, but to how you run is the key to eradicating these problems, and can make way for even better fitness and faster, more efficient performance.

Profect is one of the UK's leading customized insole and sports footwear specialists and their unique video gait analysis system uses the latest technology and biomechanics expertise to create the shoe that takes all this into account, and fits you and only you.

To celebrate the launch of their second state-of-the-art running shop in South Clapham, London, Profect has teamed up with 220 Triathlon to offer readers the chance of winning £750 worth of specialist equipment, including:

- Free video gait analysis consultation with foot pressure mapping
- Free customised insoles for running shoes (made whilst you wait!)
- Free running shoes
- Free Polar watch with heart rate monitor
- Free Falke running clothing

The winner will be invited to their nearest Profect store to experience the video gait analysis fitting system, which takes in the movement of your feet from 360 degrees. This vital information is then combined with the latest in footwear technology to manufacture customised insoles while you wait. The insole is fitted to provide the correct level of support, protection and shock absorption, helping to minimise injuries, and increase performance and comfort. The consultant will then combine your customised insoles with your ideal running shoe. For more information please visit www.profect.co.uk.

Profect will then take a mould of your feet and manufacture a customised insole while you wait
